A woman that is well, in perfect health, is a rarity. The majority of women have some ailmont—some disorder of which to complain. They are weak, 'all-tired-out,' broken down,' the roses have vanished from their cheeks, the smile from face, the cheerfulness from the voice. They are peaked, pale and puny. The ruby lips are purplish or blanched, the sparkling eye is dimmed and the bewitching charms of youth are faded. This all due to ill-health. Why women should be so unhealthful. space will not permit of discussion here. But it is a fact. Their systems are debilitated, all-run-down and need toning up. The reason for this is easily discovered if the master of the house walks down to the kitchen after his cook has been discharged, and takes notice how a saucepan, which will be found standing on the ground, is placed. Chinese servants, particularly those from Singapore, when discharged, leave signs which the newcomer looks for immediately he enters the kitchen. If the place is considered a good one, a saucepan will be left on the ground with the lid pur on properly. If the lid is placed in the saucepan upside down, that is to say, with the handle of the lid inside the saucepan, it ! means that the servant has gone away for a short time only and that as soon as he can he intends to return, as the situation is considered a good one. If the lid of the 9 Encouragement Stakes, One Mile, saucepan is left out on the ground near the saucepan which is standing the right way up, it means the house is in want of servants. If the lid is put half way in and half out of the saucepan, it I Flyaway Stakes; Seven Furlougs, means that the place is a good one, but the master of the house is stingy. Should the 3 saucepan have still some rice in it, and the lid closed properly, it means that the servant is quite satisfied with everything concerning the people of the house, but that he is forced to leave on account other reasons which in the habit of cutting a servant's pay for broken or lost articles, or for other faults, a mark is made on the bottom of the saucepan in chalk which will not jub out easily. CALINTTA, Sept. 2. A Parsee millionaire named Tata, of Bombay, has secured the favor of the Indian Government in a gigantic scheme to work the iron ore deposits of the central provinces of India in return for his pledge of capital sufficient to develop this enormous field, the Government has agreed to grant to him every possible facility and protection in his undertaking. Details of the scheme so far divulged have excited high anticipations and general onthusiosm here among commercial interests. Tata's project is the largest ever undertaken in India. It looks to the employment of labor on an immense scale. In addition to the development of extensive mines throughout a region long known to be rich in iron deposits, it contemplates the establishment of foundries and rolling mills. Coal abounds in the iron districts, thus minimizing that item of expense. With cheup coal and cheap labor at his service, and the Government encouragement now formally assured him, Tata says he will obtain the best supervising talent that money can engage, with the view of making India the chief source of the world's supply

Unfortunately, that firm was dependent on Chinese workmen, and although the Chinese are most ingenious and clever in the production of silver ornaments of a class with which they are familiar, on this occasion the result was most unsatisfactory. Your Excellency will remember that on 6th August, when, after much persecution by the elements, we were at last favoured with a fine afternoon, and the first sod of the King's Park was successfully turned, I informed you that the Committee regretted that the souvenir we had intended to present was not yet finished, but that we hoped to be able to hand it to you a little later on. Allow me to add that we shall all remember the kind manner in which both Lady Gascoigne and Your Excellency came forward on that occasion to make the function a success, in spite of the fact that on three successive previous occasions it had had to

I informed Captain Davidson of the Suine of the matter, and as the Chi fu; was on the German boat, we immediately went across and reported the matter to him. He himself made a copy of Chang's letter, protested his utter sorrow, said it was an offence against God - but it came under the jurisdiction of Chenchon. To this I readily assented, but suggested that as I intended to go to Chepcheu it was his duty to see that I was sufficiently protected, and properly received at my destina-He replied that they would do whatever I wished, and requested me to go to the Hsien, who would make all arrangements. I did this, and the Hsien promised to do everything. About 9 p.m. to sent word that they had secured a hoat, but the price of it was 22,000 cash. I replied to this that as the expense would have to be burne by the Chénchon officials would leave it to the mandarin to do as he pleased. Later, as the bout provided was unsuitable, I requested that it might he changed, and this was munediately done. A gunboat will escort me right through, and relays of soldiers who, I understand, are to attend to my personal wants. thought it best to make it clear that I was to be sent officially, fearing that otherwise I should not have access to the officials at Chênchou. On Monday morning, while was writing on the British gunbeat for my boat to be changed, Mr Tsai, Mr Bruce's teacher, arrived, and from him I was able to gather some details. Here let me say that in addition to the evangelist's latter, now have accounts from four men. These men all came down at different times, and each one tells the same story. There is a light variation as to the manner of Lowis's death which I shall refer to again. Mr Tsai, the teacher, says that rumours to the effect that the foreigners had poisoned the wells had been rife for some time, the story being that he, Tsai, had been heavily bribed by the foreigners to carry out their evil designs. Our friends were frequently urged to go to the yamen, but just as often refused to do so, saying, 'Our trust is in God; there is no need to run away.' They also frequent by had prayer with the Christians. At 3 p.m. on Friday, 15th August, Bruce evidently realised that trouble was browing, for he sent to the yamen for help. I have just questioned the cook as to what it was that caused Mr Bruce to send for help at that particular time, the crowd not yet having assembled. He says that word had come that the shops on the streets were putting up their shutters, and that men were assembling to kill the foreigners. The man left for the yamen immediately, but he had not been gone ten minutes before the opening the Cape Parliament further and people arrived. Before he got back all was nounced Railways, Harbours, and Irrigatover. Mr Tsai says that when the crowd gation Bills, and another Bill fixing the came Mr Bruce went to the door to speck contribution to the Navy at £59,000. He to them, and was attacked at once. Mr added that the expenditure would greatly Tsai went to his help. but was spized and exceed the expenditure in the past, but that this clothes torn. I asked bim if Bruce the continuous expansion in trule justified called out, or said anything at all. He the expectation of increased revenue. He says he called out something, but doesn't urged that the discussion of the Bills should know what it was. Bruce must have fellen cuting the order at all. Your Excellency's, be in a moderate spirit, and he impressed very quickly. He, was besten with sticks, ed with wounds; his face was battered by-The House adopted, without discussion, wond recognition. Tsui seems to have here the variation referred to above comes August 22. - Owing largely to the omistio. The cook says that Lowis, hearing that Tsai, the teacher, escaped with a few bruises; Chang, the evangelist, is badly injured, but decided to stay by the dead hodies until some one should arrive.

When the Faceached the chapel, half an hour after being sent for, he found Mr Bruce's body lying in the middle of the street. He took hold of his hand to ascertain if he were still alive; finding him to be dead he ordered the body to be carried into the hall. Later, the Hsien provided coffins. All the men who have come down greatly blame the officials, especially the military men who, they say, simply shur their eyes to what was going on. There is a military yamen just behind the hall twenty or thirty men could have saved the Sports. place, but the officer refused to send them. Another officer said he couldn't send men without orders from the Fu. The Hsien' had plenty of work to save the Imperial Post Office. He arrived just in time to save the life of the postal clerk, a Edrasian. If my informants are to be believed, he is with any promptness. In addition to Mr Chang two other church members were injured. The ten followers are not at all afraid, but if you have any fears go and stay in the Hsien yamên. And the old man, knowing all the danger. stood by right to the end.

I asked Mr Tsai if he would go back with me, but he had been badly scared became quiet again. But with Mr Chang at Noon. waiting for some one to bury the dead, and not knowing when Quirmbach would be back. I determined to go on. No doubt by the time I arrive the reaction will have set in, and things will be quiet. WHAT IS PAIN BALM? THAMBERLAIN'S Poin Balm is a liniment and, while adapted to all the ordinary uses of a liniment, has qualities which distinguish it from other remedies of this class. Pain Balm is especially beneficial for rheumatism. Thousands of cases can be cited in which it has effected a cure when the sufferer had previously tried the best medical service without securing relief. Pain Balm is positively quarenteed to give relief in the most severe cases of chronic or scute rheumatism. Pain Balm heals bruises, burns and scalds in less time than any other treatment. It is 'antiseptic' that is, it prevents putrefaction and by so doing, generally prevents an unsightly scar remaining after the injury is bealed. For lame back, lumbage and neuralgia, Pain Balm has no equal. It has the quality of 'getting to the right spot.' No sufferer from these distressing affections should defer a trial of this remedy. One application gives relief. Try it. For sale by All Dealers; WATKINS Ltd., General
